

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, March 21.

Whatever may be the effect of Senator Hill's Southern trip, from which he returned yesterday, in the South, it has already resulted in injuring his prospects for the Democratic nomination in Congressional circles. Even those who are his friends say that his dodging of the silver question was bad judgment. A Farmers' Alliance Representative from the South, who is also a Democrat, says on the subject: "Senator Hill will deceive himself if he thinks that the enthusiasm with which he was received by the Southerners means that they will send delegations to Chicago instructed to vote for him. Enthusiasm is easily aroused in the South, but its politics is not effected thereby, as President Harrison could testify. Mr. Hill had a great opportunity to make himself solid with the South by defining his position on silver and on the tariff, and what is the result? Portions of his Birmingham speech might have been made by Gov. McKinley, and on silver, right on the eve of the debate which will this week focus the eyes of the civilized world on the House of Representatives, not a word in any of his speeches. I cannot speak for the Democratic party of the entire South, but I can say with what time will prove to be an authentic voice that he will get no votes in those Southern States in which the Democratic State conventions will be dominated by the Alliance. We have had enough of straddlers, and no man will get Alliance support whose position is not fully known on every public question." If this gentleman knows whereof he speaks Mr. Hill's chances for Southern delegates can hardly be called flattering.

The manufacturers who profit through the sweating system have told their side to the House sub-committee engaged in investigating the subject. After the silver bill is disposed of the Committee will go to Boston for the purpose of getting the other side.

Senator Peffer was probably the only one of the forty-nine Senators who voted for or against the confirmation of Judge Woods of Indiana to be a member of the United States Circuit Court whose vote was not more or less influenced by political considerations. The twenty-five Republicans, present and unpaired, voted solidly for Judge Woods, and the twenty-three Democrats, with whom Senator Peffer voted, voted solidly against him. It does seem that such questions as judicial nomination to the bench of the Federal Court might be entirely removed from the arena of partisan politics.

The Cleveland Democrats are making the most of the report of the House Committee on Elections in favor of Col. Noyes, the Republican contestant from the twenty-eighth New York District, which they call a "spirited refusal of the Democratic members of the Committee to be bogged by Hill." Senator Hill made personal appeals to the Democratic members of the Committee in favor of the sitting member, Mr. Rockwell, but only one member of the Committee voted in favor of his retaining the seat.

President Harrison signed and had forwarded to the Judges of the new Circuit Court their commission last Friday, and it is said that a little note accompanied each of them saying in substance that, in view of the time lost while the nominations were hung up in the Senate, it would be well to hasten the organization of the Court, as lots of work awaits it.

Representative Bailey, of Texas, may be a crank because of his determination that no bill shall pass the House unless a quorum be present when the vote is taken, but Congress would be improved by the addition of a number of similar cranks. Members of Congress are paid five thousand dollars a year to attend the sessions, and those of them who find they cannot do so should resign and give those who would attend regularly a chance to do so.

Secretary Noble signaled his return to his duties by disapproving the recommendation of Commissioner of Pensions Baum for the appointment of his daughter to be his private secretary, and to add to the humiliation, Gen. Baum had to announce that action to the House Investigating Committee. Gen. Baum is, as the sports say, "playing in hard luck," but not a little, if it arises from his lack of judgment.

The river and harbor bill has been reported to the House. It carries appropriations aggregating $20,500,000. No more pauper immigrants are to be allowed to land on the guarantee of societies that they shall not become burdens on the public, and an order to that effect has been sent by the Treasury Department to all immigration officials. Again there is a depleted Treasury current, but there is no evidence that the Treasury is sailing any closer to the wind than it has been doing for a long time.

Extending the Caldwell Railroad.

The task of securing right of way for the extension of the Caldwell road to Morristown and Hopatcong has not been difficult, and in many instances it has been given freely by landowners. The grading will be begun as soon as the whole right of way is secured, and perhaps sooner if some obstinate farmer makes opposition.

Our Transplanted Rose.

(An fond remembrance of Rose Noon.)

How short the distance, when we came to view it,
Is that between the cradle and the grave;
But, could we see the life that would ensue it,
With noble acts that transient path we'd pave.

Back to her mother earth we gave dear Rose,
Her sweet face hidden from us forever more;
Ah, how we miss that voice so quick to greet us
In those bright schooldays of the happy yore.

But, Rose was not to longer stay amongst us,
No more, earth's trials, was her mind to know.

So like a sunbeam was her coming to us,
So like it, too, to come and shortly go.

"Transplanted Rose" to Heaven's fields so lovely.

May we when life's dear pilgrimage is o'er,
Untie the bonds of friendship lately severed,
Where sad farewells are uttered nevermore.
